This past Veterans Day, Colton celebrated in style. The city had a parade in honor of local military veterans who had served our country.

The parade started at La

Cadena and O streets, and followed La Cadena to Colton City Hall. The procession ended with a wreath-laying ceremony at Fleming Park where Congressman Joe Baca, Mayor Sarah Zamora, and other city officials spoke to the crowd and a 21-Gun Salute was rendered by Colton's Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6476 Rifle Team.

The parade is an annual event for the city of Colton, bringing out various members of the community. Those who participated in the parade this year represented different military branches and military-related groups.

ARMC's Third Annual Veterans Day Ceremony Honors Veterans

ARMC's Third Annual Veterans Day Ceremony today touched on topics including the sacrifices that veterans make to serve the United States; the 236th anniversary of the U.S. Marine Corps; and a special message from the County of San Bernardino Board of Supervisors recognizing all those who have made the ultimate sacrifice for freedom.

The ceremony drew about 100 attendees, including 20 veterans and family members, who were treated to a presentation by the Fontana High School ROTC Color Guard, a message from ARMC Director Patrick Petre, a U.S. Marine Corps veteran; and a presentation of a special flag donated by former ARMC volunteer Capt. Jeff Lehm-

Dear Friends, Family and Community Leaders...

Please join me in helping our needy students in the Colton Joint Unified School District by donating a new jacket for the winter season. I thought a toy was a great donation, yet I never realized how many students from Kindergarten to High School could use something to keep them warm. As you can read below, jackets are the most common requested items for our needy students. Especially for the middle and high school kids... "On behalf of Student Services: In anticipation of what is usually our most common request for needy families during the winter season, this year we are organizing a jacket drive to help keep our students warm. Please see the attached flyer and consider donating a new jacket as part of your holiday giving. Your donations will be shared with students throughout the district."

Please drop off your donated jacket/s to: CJUSD - Student Services, 851 S. Mt. Vernon Ave, Colton CA 92324

Colton Crossings

Congressman Joe Baca, Mayor Sarah Zamora, and other city officials spoke to the crowd and a 21-Gun Salute was rendered by Colton's Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6476 Rifle Team.

The parade is an annual event for the city of Colton, bringing out various members of the community. Those who participated in the parade this year represented different military branches and military-related groups.

Colton's American Legion Post 155 had a float at the parade where those belonging to the organization rode in the back of a flatbed trailer pulled by a pick-up. John Mejia, Commander of the Sons of the American Legion Post 155, rode with other members including the Ladies Auxiliary. "We're honoring all our men and women who are serving and the ones who never made it back home," he explained.

Also in the parade was Colton High's Navy JROTC program who led the procession with the colors. The cadets participate in many events each year, and this parade was just one of them.

Colton Crossing makes history on Tuesday morning. City officials, railway representatives, and the Earp Family lend a hand.

Another JROTC program, this one from Arroyo High School in San Bernardino, was also represented at the event. Major Rick Williams, Senior Army Instructor for the high school's program told of the importance of the military presence in high schools throughout the country. "There is a resurgence of Cadet Programs all over the country," said Williams, who saw Arroyo's Hawk Battalion grow from 80 Cadets ten years ago to more than a 180, today. Williams added that "The students appreciate service to the community and the nation. As a vet, I'm personally proud of them."

The event also drew out many members of the community to see the festivities.

Lorenzo Santiago, Markie Castorena, and Johnathan and Joey Barreno watched with their dog, Chico. "I served on the Dwight D. Eisenhower and went to Colton High School," said Santiago. "It gets me here," Santiago touched his chest, "to see our flag go by." Santiago and his friend Markie Castoreno were impressed with Colton High's cadets. "They didn't look like that when we were there. It makes me really proud."

John and Terri Rivera, Colton residents, brought their bulldog, Rocco, to enjoy the festivities. We come out every year to support our veterans—it's tradition," says John. Marc Manjarrez and his son Jaden also came out to support the veterans, in addition to Marc's granddaughter, Devinique who is part of the Arroyo High JROTC. "She is enthusiastic about it," said Marc, a Marine Corps veteran from 1982 to 1988. He explained the importance of the military and the significance of the day. "Service did wonders for me. Besides, Veterans Day is an excuse for me to wear my colors."

As the parade finished, with a long entourage of classic cars, residents and parade participants gathered at Fleming Park for the Veterans Day ceremony sponsored by the City of Colton, the VFW Post 6476, and American Legion Post 155.

"Today is a day of pride, its pride for all of us veterans who have served. It's time to reflect on our memories; those of us who served in the military," said Baca as he addressed the crowd. Mayor Sarah Zamora also spoke in tribute to veterans.

"These are the people we need to honor, and not just on Veterans Day, but every day we to honor them," said Zamora.

Orchids and Onions

An orchid goes out to the Colton Chamber of Commerce for accepting credit cards for dues and fees as of recently!

An orchid goes out to the Colton Police Department for always trying their best to keep us safe. They do not get recognized enough!

Orchids to all those who worked together to pull off a great parade. It's things like this that make me love living in Colton!

An orchid goes out to the Colton High School ROTC cadets for coming to visit my grandmother in the hospital on Veterans Day. It's all she can talk about!

Onions to the people who were blocking my view at the Colton Parade.

How to Keep Your Attic from Being an Energy-Efficient Drain

(ARA) - The attic accounts for a tremendous amount of lost energy. This space can reach up to 165 degrees in summer months. When this heat makes its way into the rest of the building, energy efficiency drops and cooling costs rise. While building a new home, a radiant barrier is a proactive solution to energy loss, reducing monthly cooling costs in the process.

Consider adding a radiant barrier

Radiant barriers can help reduce summer heat gain and hold in heat during the winter months. An independent study in 2010 by ConSol indicated that radiant barrier sheathing is one of the top three energy-efficient technologies in new home construction in terms of performance, cost and return on investment.

The U.S. Department of Energy recognizes radiant barriers as a way to lower cooling energy usage during the summer. Correctly installed, the foil surface of the radiant barrier sheathing can block up to 97 percent of the radiant heat in the roof panel from entering your attic. This can lower the attic temperature by as much as 30 degrees and reduce cooling costs by up to 17 percent. A cooler attic will benefit your attic-installed air handling system and in some cases reduce the tonnage required in an HVAC system.

A year-long study performed by SGS U.S. Testing Company in the foothills of North Carolina of two side-by-side structures with and without radiant barrier sheathing shows that a radiant barrier can also help prevent attic heat loss during the winter, reducing energy costs by up to 5 percent. So no matter what time of year, a radiant barrier can help you save.

How to choose the right radiant barrier

When building a new home, talk to your contractor about adding a radiant barrier into your roof system. There are a number of radiant barriers available, but not all of these products are the same. One critical factor to keep in mind is how quickly the radiant barrier dries from potential moisture during the construction process.

In order to make sure your contractor is using a radiant barrier that has been manufactured to help prevent moisture issues, it's important to understand just how a radiant barrier is made. Radiant barrier sheathing typically consists of a structural OSB (oriented strand board) panel with a layer of aluminum adhered to the surface. Some radiant barrier panel manufacturers purchase foil materials that come pre-perforated. This may not necessarily allow the panel to breathe, because the perforations do not extend into the wood fiber of the panel. An added challenge is that the adhesive used to apply the radiant barrier to the substrate can fill in the perforations, decreasing the ability of moisture in the panel to escape.

One product on the market, LP(R) TechShield(R) Radiant Barrier Sheathing, addresses the issue of moisture and moisture to escape.

"Tests show that VaporVents technology allows the panel to dry almost as efficiently as OSB sheathing without a radiant barrier, while other products that use pre-perforated foil showed a significant amount of moisture, in some cases more than 30 percent, still in the panel after 80 days of drying. Wood needs to stay under 19 percent moisture to avoid structural issues," says David Drew, OSB technical sales manager for LP Building Products.

Understanding the options

In an effort to reduce attic temperatures, your builder may recommend spray-foam insulation to seal the attic and create conditioned space for the HVAC equipment.

Bathroom Remodeling Hints: Small Price Tag, Big Impact

(ARA) - Unless you just completed a stunning bathroom renovation with a five-figure price tag, there's probably at least one thing in your bathroom you'd like to change. Whether you're dealing with a constantly leaky faucet or the whole room just looks drab and out of date, you can find many ways to make your bathroom beautiful again without breaking the bank or investing a huge amount of time. Here are a few tips to get you started:

Replace your tired old toilet. Upgrading to a sleek, easy-to-clean one-piece toilet is a surprisingly simple way to update your bathroom, and it doesn't have to cost a lot, either. Toilet installations are often viewed as a job for a professional, but some new toilets are being designed with the do-it-yourself homeowner in mind. The new SAVER toilet from American Standard, for instance, can be installed without using any tools at all - just a simple hand-tightening is all that's required. Plus, a new low-flow commode like the SAVER can pay for itself in water savings alone.

Clean up your caulk. If the caulk in your bathroom is grimy, prone to mildew, or cracked, replacing it is a great way to freshen up the look of your bathroom. Use a caulk softener, available at any hardware store, to soften the existing caulk and make it easier to remove. Then, a good scraping with a plastic putty knife will do the trick. After the caulk is removed, clean in between the tiles with a bleach and water solution, and allow to dry completely. Then you are ready to apply the new caulk. Tom Kraeutler of the home improvement blog TheMoneyPit.com recommends using a mildew-proof caulk for easier cleaning and longer-lasting good looks. Apply the caulk in between the tiles with a smooth, steady motion, and then smooth the surface with a moistened finger for a more even appearance.

Fancy up your faucets. Swapping out an out-of-date faucet is less expensive and time-consuming than replacing an entire pedestal sink or vanity, but can still have a big visual impact. Whether your style is clean and modern or romantic and ornate, updating your faucets can be easy and stress-free now that many manufacturers are offering easy-to-install bathroom faucets. For example, all lavatory faucets from American Standard and JADO come with Speed Connect drains that contain only four parts - 10 less than conventional drains - and are easy to install in minutes, without guesswork or special materials.

Paint your way to a beautiful bath. Freshening up the color on the walls in your bathroom can be an easy afternoon project depending on the size and structure of your bathroom. Because they are typically the smallest rooms in the house, bathrooms are a great place to experiment with color - if you hate it or change your mind, it's easy enough to change to something else. Want to keep it simple? Pure white walls, especially when accented with glass and dark woods, are a current design trend.

provide ten lucky military couples with a free wedding with all the glitz and glamour that made the day a memorable one.

It was an example of generosity at its finest. Donations came in the form of wedding dresses, tuxedos, flowers, limos and a dinner reception for 600. All done to give these couples, who have sacrificed so much, a heartfelt "thank you."

Going by the name Community Cupid, everything was provided for the brides and grooms.

"The call went out to hundreds of Inland Empire entrepreneurs, volunteers, service professionals and community activists, asking them to dedicate the last ten weeks to show-who along with Ryan Orr, founder of Operation Community Cares, Inc., created Community Cupid.

Selected to receive the nuptials were ten soldiers who either recently returned from or will soon be deployed to Iraq or Afghanistan.

The couples who received the outpouring of appreciation are:

brides and grooms," said Anthony. "The response has been simply amazing."

Beginning with a parade down Haven Avenue, the procession went south to Inland Empire Boulevard in Ontario and headed east to the Ontario Airport Hilton Hotel, where the ceremony took place. Various pastors performed the weddings, supplying the event with the romance and memories found in a single wedding.

In fact, couples and their bridesmaids and groomsmen arrived in a limo.

School Sports: Tips To Identify and Treat Concussions

(ARA) - The crunch of pads followed by a tweet of a whistle, the thump of a basketball with a staccato of footfalls to accompany it, and even the thwack of a hockey puck against Plexiglass means one thing: school sports are in season.

Coaches, parents and players are all getting ready for the game and practices are hard and grueling. But many sports involve contact and potential injuries, so coaches and parents need to educate themselves about serious injuries like concussions.

At the professional level, more and more attention is being paid to the hard hits players are taking. The NFL is changing rules on helmet-to-helmet contact in hopes of reducing the number and severity of concussions suffered by players. But, head injuries also happen at much lower levels of play, and can be very serious. “Coaches and parents need to understand the extreme care that is needed when responding to a concussion,” says Dr. Jeffrey Kutcher, chair of the American Academy of Neurology’s Sports Neurology Section and also director of the University of Michigan’s Neurosport program. Signs of a concussion that can be observed during a game or practice are:

turning younger athletes to a game or practice who may have experienced a sports concussion,” says Dr. Jeffrey Kutcher, chair of the American Academy of Neurology’s Sports Neurology Section and also director of the Univer-

  - * Loss of consciousness
  - * Empty stare
  - * Disorientation
- Athletes may also report

the following when suffering a concussion:

- * Blurry vision
- * Confusion
- * Dizziness
- * Feeling hazy, foggy or groggy
- * Headache

The American Academy of Neurology’s website at www.aan.com/concussion offers two online safety courses created by the University of Michigan Neurosport program and endorsed by the Academy to help high school and youth coaches recognize the signs of concussion and what to do if a player gets a head injury during a game. Each 20-minute safety course is free and a printable certificate is available after passing the online quiz. Coaches Cards are also downloadable from the Academy’s website providing easy-to-access information on how to spot a concussion and what to do if a player experiences one. Coaches and players are encouraged to keep these cards with their athletic gear for easy access. Some states have passed laws on managing concussions. If you are a coach or parent of a younger athlete, make sure you educate yourself on the laws and concussion signs to keep the athlete safe. “If for any reason you suspect an athlete has a concussion, remove the athlete from play and be sure the athlete is carefully evaluated by a person trained in concussion management, such as a neurologist,” Kutcher says. “Rushing this part of the process may lead to a serious setback, or worsen the injury.” High school and youth sporting events are meant to get athletes playing the games they love. But, a head injury needs to be addressed very carefully in order to ensure the athlete returns to the field safely for many more games to be played, both now and well into the future.

Chaffey College Masters Veteran’s Day Tournament

Bree Ball led six players in double figures with 16 points to go with 10 rebounds as Chaffey College pulled off an upset of state No. 7 and region No. 2-ranked Pasadena City College, 87-66, in the championship game of the Veteran’s Day Classic held Nov. 11-13 at Hutto-Patterson Gymnasium.

Chaffey, No. 12 in the region and ranked No. 20 in the pre-season poll, led 36-31 at halftime. Pasadena cut the lead to 44-40 before the Panthers went on a monster run, outscoring the Lancers, 34-8, over an 8-minute span to put the title game away.

Although they had little impact in this game, the tourney MVP went to freshman guard Shannon Moore and All-Tourney honors to frosh guard Ashlee Harper, who had seven points, five rebounds and a team-high seven assists in the PCC win.

The Lancers had All-Tourney selections go to sophomore forward Marquetta Stokes, who led everyone in the championship final with 22 points, and second-year center Tonisha Lacey, who had eight points and a game-high 16 rebounds.

Chaffey starts the season at 3-0 while Pasadena fell to 2-1. It is the first time that Chaffey defeated Pasadena since Joe Peron took over as head coach of the Lancers program in 1996-97. PCC had won the last eight meetings between the teams, including two playoff games.

Other All-Veteran’s Day Classic selections were:

sion with the colors. The cadets participate in many events each year, and this parade was just one of them.

Another JROTC program, this one from Arroyo High School in San Bernardino, was also represented at the event. Major Rick Williams, Senior Army Instructor for the high school's program told of the importance of the military presence in high schools throughout the country. "There is a resurgence of Cadet Programs all over the country," said Williams, who saw Arroyo's Hawk Battalion grow from 80 Cadets ten years ago to more than a 180, today. Williams added that "The students appreciate service to the community and the nation. As a vet, I'm personally proud of them."

The event also drew out many members of the community to see the festivities. Lorenzo Santiago, Markie Castorena, and Johnathan and Joey Barreno watched with their dog, Chico. "I served on the Dwight D. Eisenhower and went to Colton High School," said Santiago. "It gets me Volunteer Joyce Roberts helps the Colton Police Department manage records, control traffic and enforce city code so officers can focus on crime prevention. Yuriana Nava, a 21-year-old mother of two, completed the Colton Police Explorer program and now mentors and supervises Explorer youth. She also contributes numerous hours to the department as a dispatcher and traffic controller.

Both Colton residents were among 18 volunteers recently honored by Assemblymember Wilmer Amina Carter, D-Rialto, for providing exemplary service to public safety agencies within the 62nd Assembly District. About 165 people attended Assemblymember Carter's third annual Public Safety Volunteers Recognition Ceremony on Oct. 28 at the Inland Regional Center Conference Center in San Bernardino.

"With all the layoffs and challenges the department faces, they need our help," said Roberts, who has lived in the city for 30 years.

"Yuriana and Joyce have been and continue to be a great asset to our department with their hard work and dedication, said Colton Police Chief Steve Ward, "I am pleased to be able to call attention to their contributions."

Thanksgiving Food Drive

It's that time of the year again to celebrate Thanksgiving, a day of giving thanks for our many blessing. As we all know, many local families are in need this holiday season and aren't as fortunate. Once again the Chamber of Commerce would like to invite you to help make a difference to families and children in our community. We are currently taking donations of canned goods as well as monetary donations to help feed up to 40 families this year. The meals that we provide cost roughly about $50 each. The meals include a turkey and all the fixings for a family of 4-6. On Thanksgiving morning the Chamber partners with the Colton High School Football team and delivers all meals to families. If you are interested in making a donation, please contact Laura Morales directly at (909) 825-2222 or email LMorales@coltonchamber.org.

Hermosa Garden Cemetery Celebrate Día de los Muertos

By: James Craig
Community Writer

Last Wednesday night, hundreds gathered at Colton's Hermosa Garden Cemetery to pay tribute to the deceased in a celebration of "Día de los Muertos," or "Day of the Dead." Día de los Muertos is a holiday celebrated in Hispanic culture that remembers, honors, and prays for those who have passed from this earth. Occurring every year on November 2nd, the holiday focuses on the gathering of family and friends to pray and pay homage to their loved ones who are with them no more. The celebration shares close connection with the Catholic holiday of All Souls Day.

The night began with a prayer service; some guests remembered their loved ones by decorating and picnicking by their gravesites. Following the prayer service was a night of music, dance, and food, rooted in a celebration of the Hispanic culture and a celebration of Día de los Muertos!

Teresa Hidalgo, a resident from Upland, came out to the festival and left with a Día de los Muertos face painting. For those who didn't want their face painted, a variety of food vendors along with the ambience of traditional Hispanic music and ceremonial dance was sure to keep everyone entertained! Event officials were pleased with the event turnout, and pleased that so many had gone out and showed their support.

ARMC Honors Veterans

ARMC's facilities management department, and a U.S. Navy veteran, said he enjoys the annual ceremony, because it serves as a reminder of what it means to have served his country, and that it is an honor to be recognized.

"It is essential to thank our veterans and their families," said Petre. "We can never forget the efforts of veterans who have served, and who continue to serve, to keep this country safe." ARMC Chaplain, Payson Gregory, who was a gunner in the U.S. Navy during World War II said, "I was only about 17 at the time I served, but I remember how our country came together to defend this nation's freedom."

A poster featuring the names of ARMC veterans was unveiled during the ceremony.

ARMC Building Maintenance and Security Manager, Mike Heine, a U.S. Navy veteran, organized the event as a special tribute to the veterans of ARMC.

www.redlandsfootlighters.org

Although Arthur is a successful mystery writer, his latest work has oddly turned into a vivid and adulterous romance. His son, second wife, and editor marvel at the truthfulness of the work, remarkable since it is inconceivable that he could ever have had such an affair. Enter a woman, who is intent on blackmail and whose story is foolproof and airtight. When she turns up dead, evidence incriminates Arthur. There is a conspiracy to do him in, a conspiracy that entails cunning, deceit and ingenious plotting.

Tickets are $15 for this performance, $10 for students with ID. We accept payment in cash, by check or by major credit card.

The Nutcracker

When: 8 p.m. Dec. 2, 8 p.m. Dec. 3, 2:15 p.m. Dec. 4
 Playing at: The California Theatre of Performing Arts
 Location: 562 W. Fourth St. San Bernardino, CA
 Phone: 909-885-5152
 Price: $20-30
www.californiatheatre.net

An Inland Empire holiday tradition, "The Nutcracker," takes to the stage of the California Theatre of the Performing Arts in downtown San Bernardino for three performances in December.

Nutcracker

The ballet, a presentation by Inland Dance Theatre, will be presented at 8 p.m. Dec. 2-3 and 2:15 p.m. Dec. 4. Tickets are $20-$30, and are available at www.ticketmaster.com, the theater box office at (909) 885-5152, or Inland Dance Academy at (909) 862-1390

Tchaikovsky's classic ballet, about a young girl named Clara who dreams of the Nutcracker Prince and fierce battle against a Mouse King, is one of the most popular ballets of all time.

The ballet, which is performed by dozens of groups worldwide primarily during the Christmas season, includes such well-known characters as Clara and Fritz, Herr Drosselmeyer, the Nutcracker-Prince, the Sugar Plum Fairy, Harlequin, and the Mouse King.

The music in Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker" is among his most beloved. It contains some of his most memorable melodies, several which are frequently used in television and film, as well as in TV commercials. One of the most recognizable pieces is The "Trepak," or "Russian Dance," along with the famous "Waltz of the Flowers," and the "Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy."

This is the 36th anniversary year of "The Nutcracker," presented by Inland Dance Theatre.

Diane Amendt is in her 31st year as its artistic director. Evette DeMarco Swinson is the rehearsal director and choreographer. The 80-plus-member cast of all ages is made up of amateur and professional dancers and actors from throughout Southern California.

The two-act ballet by Pyotr Ilyich Tchaikovsky was originally staged on Dec. 18, 1891 in St. Petersburg, Russia. Tchaikovsky adapted his ballet from the story by E.T.A. Hoffmann titled "The Nutcracker and the Mouse King."

The first complete performance of "The Nutcracker" outside of Russia was in England in 1934. An abridged version of the ballet was staged in New York City.

A Wonderful Life: Coming to a Theater Near You

The holiday season is almost here, and The Grove Theatre is presenting "A Wonderful Life - A Radio-on-Stage Show", starring a Grove favorite, Ken DeShan as George Bailey.

Everyone's favorite holiday movie comes to the stage in this unique re-telling of a Christmas classic. It's Christmas Eve - at a run-down radio station in middle America - a small group of radio performers are presenting Frank Capra's holiday fable. Enjoy a behind the scenes look at live radio theatre and re-visit this heart-warming story about the value of every human life. This beloved American holiday classic comes to captivating life as a live 1940's radio broadcast. Faced with a grave decision on Christmas Eve, George discovers, with the help his guardian angel, what the world would be like if he had never been born. This touching production takes a cue from the classic dramas of radio's golden age, presenting the story live on stage as if it were an actual 1940's radio show. This classic holiday show brings the beloved Frank Capra film to life before your very eyes (and ears) via the magic of stage (and radio).

Performances are on weekends beginning Friday, December 2nd, and ending Saturday, December 17th.

Tickets are $20 and $15 with senior and group discounts available. In this economy, we want everyone to be able to see this wonderful holiday show. Tickets can be purchased by calling the Box Office at (909) 920-4343, or by visiting The Grove's website at <http://www.grovetheatre.com>.

“Riverdance” Still Mesmerizes the Audience

By: Jules E. Beuck
Entertainment Writer

“Riverdance,” is the amazing show that showcases Irish dancing and is now in its fifteenth year of mesmerizing everyone who sees it.

It started, appropriately enough, in Ireland in 1995 and soon moved across the pond to New York. There are now three “Riverdance” troupes that travel the world. Theatrical Arts International brought the so called farewell tour to the California Theatre of the Performing Arts in San Bernardino but it is still touring and came back for another run from November 4th – the 6th at the California Theatre.

“Riverdance” attempts to tell the history of the Irish people in dance and song. For example, the first number, “Reel Around the Sun,” describes the people first coming to Ireland. As the troupe dances the look on their faces is one of determination and defiance.

Each scene or song is introduced by a voice over. A poem is read that leads into the action of the scene. There is a live band on stage that back up the dancers and singers.

The band also has its own time in the spotlight, which not only entertains the audience but also gives the performers a chance to change mance but the Tap, however, was astounding.

The Tap number was called “Trading Taps.” In this scene two Tap dancers run across three Riverdancers and a competition ensues culminating in mutual respect for each other’s talent and culture. The dancing on both sides was nothing short of amazing.

The stage is set up quite simply. There are columns on stage that are reminiscent of Stonehenge.

Creative lighting is used on the columns to evoke moods or set scenes. In the back of the stage is a screen that has pictures projected on it such as the sun shining or the moon behind clouds. The picture on the screen changes to fit each scene.

The Irish Dance Troupe, as it is called in the playbill, is nothing less than phenomenal. They move with military precision while still displaying much grace. Irish dancing does not display a lot of hand movements but their feet are moving in ways that it does not seem possible for feet to move. One possible reason for the inclusion of other styles of dance in the show could be that at times the Irish dancing seems similar to Tap and fresh and innovative. The audience that was there for opening night gave the show a thunderous standing ovation.

If you missed it at the California Theatre “Riverdance” will be at the Pantages The-other times Flamenco. In this way the roots of Irish dancing and what Irish dancing may have influenced (or been influenced by) are demonstrated.

The show also sports a singing troupe that performs alone and with the dancers. The harmonies are nice and help to move the show along.

Though it is in its fifteenth year “Riverdance” still feels atre in Los Angeles from November 15th – 20th.

Upcoming shows at San Bernardino’s California Theatre of the Performing Arts include Canned Heat and the Fabulous Thunderbirds the 11th, Evening by the Rhine the 19th, and the Wizard of Oz from the 22nd -23rd. For tickets or more information visit www.theatricalarts.com or call (909) 885-5152.

San Manuel Casino Presents Jay Leno

By: Jim Miller
Community Writer

Last Thursday evening, the man who replaced Johnny Carson on the Tonight Show was at his best with an insightful wit and caustic sense of humor covering a whole range of subjects. Jay’s topics ranged from political dalliance, celebrity marriages and divorces, old age, medical breakthroughs and the new sexual revolution. His rapid paced delivery makes the audience hang on his every word, and they crave the moments he shares with them concerning everyday life. As the San Manuel bio on Jay Leno describes, “Jay’s everyman style and personality have helped him earn millions of fans worldwide, but primarily in the regions where people can relate to personable style and work ethic. He has been touted as one of the nicest people in show business and the hardest-working—a winning tandem for the man who says, ‘Anyone can have a life; careers are hard to come by.’ One of the country’s premier comedians; Jay has appeared in hundreds of comedy shows around the U.S. He remains passionate about performing in front of live audiences and appears regularly in Las Vegas, on college campuses, Indian casinos, and other venues.”

Along with his comedic skills, Jay has authored two New York Times best-selling children’s books: “How to Be the Funniest Kid in the Whole Wide World (or Just in Your Class)” and “If Roast Beef Could Fly”.

He also has written another book, aptly named, “Leading with My Chin”. Along with publishing the books, Jay has published four versions of “Headlines”, the compilation of books and desk calendars featuring his favorite funny newspaper headlines; and “Police Blotter” which is a book with more humorous

Baker electric car and a 1906 Stanley Steamer. The collection also has a number of rare cars, such as a Monteverdi, a Bugatti Atlantic and a turbine motorcycle. The garage that houses all of these vehicles measures nearly 17,000 square feet and it has enough space to work on 12 cars at one time.

If you get an opportunity to see Jay Leno, please don’t hesitate; he will make you cry with laughter.

Joke of the Week

Understanding a Woman’s Language

“Fine” - This is the word we use at the end of any argument that we feel we are right about but need to shut you up. NEVER use fine to describe how a woman looks. This will cause you to have one of those arguments.

“Five minutes” - This is half an hour. It is equivalent to the five minutes that your football game is going to last before you take out the trash, so it’s an even trade.

“Nothing” - This means something and you should be on your toes. “Nothing” is usually used to describe the feeling a woman has of wanting to turn you inside out, upside down, and backwards. “Nothing” usually signifies an argument that will last “Five Minutes” and end with the word “Fine”.

“Go Ahead” (with raised eyebrows) - This is a dare. One that will result in a woman getting upset over “Nothing” and will end with the word “Fine”.

“Go Ahead” (normal eyebrows) - This means “I give up” or “do what you want because I don’t care”. You will get a raised eyebrow “Go ahead” in just a few minutes, followed by “Nothing” and “Fine” and she will talk to you in about “Five Minutes” when she cools off.

The Link Between Chronic Disease and Hearing Loss: Are You At Risk?

(ARA) - Hearing loss isn't a harmless condition to be ignored. In fact, hearing loss often coexists with other serious health problems. And a growing body of research indicates that there may be a link. Studies show that people with heart disease, diabetes, chronic kidney disease, Alzheimer's disease, and depression may all have an increased risk of hearing loss.

When left untreated, hearing loss alone can lead to a wide range of physical and emotional conditions. Impaired memory and the impaired ability to learn new tasks, reduced alertness, increased risk to personal safety, irritability, negativism, anger, fatigue, tension and stress are among its more common side effects. But when untreated hearing loss coexists with a chronic illness, the likelihood is all the greater that the individual will experience exacerbated levels of stress and diminished quality of life.

Here's the good news: Research also indicates that professionally fitted hearing aids can help improve quality of life for people with chronic diseases when hearing loss does co-exist.

"In the vast majority of cases, hearing loss can be addressed with hearing aids to help people hear better and improve their quality of life," says Dr. Sergei Kochkin, executive director of the Better Hearing Institute (BHI). "I strongly urge anyone with heart disease, diabetes, chronic kidney disease, Alzheimer's, and/or depression to talk with their doctor and make hearing screenings a routine part of their medical care."

BHI encourages people to take a free, quick and confidential online hearing test at www.hearingcheck.org to determine if they need a comprehensive hearing check by a hearing professional. For more information on hearing loss, visit www.betterhearing.org.

The link between hearing loss and certain chronic diseases

Numerous studies have long linked untreated hearing loss to diminished psychological and overall health. But an emerging body of research is now revealing a link between hearing loss and other chronic health conditions.

For example, hearing loss is about twice as common in adults with diabetes compared to those who do not have the disease, according to a study funded by the National Institutes of Health (NIH) and published in the Annals of Internal Medicine.

Another study, published in the American Journal of Kidney Diseases, found that older adults with moderate chronic kidney disease (CKD) have a higher prevalence of hearing loss than those of the same age without CKD.

Other studies have shown that a significantly higher percentage of people with Alzheimer's disease may have hearing loss than their normally aging peers. In fact, older adults with hearing loss appear more likely to develop dementia, and their risk increases as hearing loss becomes more severe, according to a study published in the Archives of Neurology. The researchers also found that the risk of developing Alzheimer's disease specifically increased with hearing loss.

The link between undressed hearing loss and depression also is compelling. An Italian study found that working adults aged 35 to 55 who were affected by mild to moderate hearing loss in both ears reported higher levels of disability and psychological distress - and lower levels of social functioning - than a well-matched normal control population.

Perhaps the link between cardiovascular disease and hearing loss is the most widely recognized. In a study published in the June 2010 issue of the American Journal of Audiology, the authors reviewed research that had been conducted over the past 60 plus years. They found that the negative influence of impaired cardiovascular health on both the peripheral and central auditory system, and the potential positive influence of improved cardiovascular health on these same systems, was found through a sizable body of research.

"With so much evidence emerging on the potential link between hearing loss and various chronic illnesses, it becomes all the more pressing for people to identify and address hearing loss early on," Kochkin says.

"Talk to your doctor. Get your hearing checked. And be assured that in most cases, today's state-of-the-art hearing aids, programmed to the specific hearing requirements of the individual, can help people hear better and thereby regain quality of life."

Finding the Perfect Gift for Grandma and Grandpa

(ARA) - With the holidays approaching, shoppers are making their lists and checking them twice. Undoubtedly, there are some blanks, as buying for grandparents often stymies children and grandchildren alike.

Today's grandparents are a unique bunch, with a number of traditional apple-pie bakers, knitters and chess players that are just as likely to be connected to their children and grandchildren on Facebook. In fact, according to a survey by Consumer Cellular, 67 percent of consumers 50 or older are on Facebook and desire a smart phone for easy Web access; 60 percent want to download financial apps, travel discounts and other offers.

If the grandparents on your list enjoy the latest gadgets, consider these holiday gift ideas:

Share the memories: Preload a digital album with the best photos from the past year, including holidays, birthdays, celebrations, and everyday moments. For grandparents who live out of town, such a gift bridges the distance and keeps children and grandchildren connected.

Stay in touch: Select a cell phone that grandparents can use to keep in touch with loved ones, and consider paying for a plan for the first year. It doesn't have to break the bank. Consumer Cellular offers no-contract plans for as little as $10 a month. From the Doro Phone Easy 410, equipped with large buttons, a bright screen and an emergency call function, to the Motorola Bravo smart phone, Consumer Cellular has phones to suit every personality and price point.

For grandparents who are less technology oriented, think about these alternatives:

Plan a night out (or in): Pick up vouchers to a movie, concert or other special event that grandparents can enjoy. Or, as kids' schedules are packed these days, consider planning a family outing to ensure some quality time with grandparents. Home-made certificates for a classic movie marathon or a game night are an affordable way to enjoy each other's company at home.

Dinner, on you: A special dinner is always appreciated. For grandparents, a gift certificate to one of their favorite restaurants is a good way to ensure a great meal without the hassle of cleaning up!

Create brag books: Use an online photo book site to create brag books for all of the grandparents. Make several copies of one version to save time. If grandma loves to brag, keep the album small enough for her pocketbook so that she's always prepared.

Any of these ideas - or your own special variations of them - are sure to bring smiles to grandparents at the holidays.
